American Ships Rushing Relief To Japanese In Empire's Hour Of Trial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Just as American vessels blazed the trail into mediaeval Japan half a century ago and opened up Nippon to the commerce of the world, so today are American ships leading the world across the Pacific, carrying relief to the island empire in its hour of greatest need.

All over the western part of the Pacific today American naval and merchant vessels are speeding toward Japan to carry succor to the millions of homeless and stricken Japanese, suffering from the yet half-told horrors of the world's greatest calamity.

Fleet Rushes Help

The fifty vessels comprising the American Asiatic fleet are either en route to the devastated sea-coast or are loading supplies of food, medicine and clothing at the nearest available port; shipping board vessels have been diverted from their normal schedules and ordered at full speed on similar missions; from the headquarters of the American army in the Philippines two army transports, the Meigs and the Merritt, are taking on reserve supplies and will shortly be under way.

America's response to Japan's call for help was instantaneous. Meanwhile today saw the inauguration of a nation-wide drive through the United States to keep the relief moving in a steady stream. Every Red Cross chapter in this country is authorized to accept contributions of money, food and clothing supplies for the relief of destitute.

Start With $110,000

The nucleus of what probably will be one of the greatest relief funds in history is $110,000 appropriated by the American Red Cross from its reserve funds. More will be forthcoming, officials said, as time lifts the veil on the catastrophe and reveals the extent of suffering.

Thus far, both government officials and Red Cross agencies feel that they are working in the dark. The breakdown of the cables and chaotic conditions that prevail in Japan have prevented them from getting a clear picture of just what is needed, but they are not waiting for details before acting.

Fear For Americans

The navy department received a dispatch from Admiral Anderson, commanding the Asiatic fleet, this morning, stating that the destroyer division No. 45 is en route to Yokohama and that several vessels are loading food supplies at Cherof, after which they will proceed to Yokohama full speed.

The drive for Red Cross funds is under way, with the stimulus of a presidential appeal for support. Little doubt exists here that there has been a heavy loss of American life in the holocaust that has shocked the world.

The normal population of Tokyo, Yokohama and other nearby Japanese cities is roughly estimated at about 5,000,000, and this number undoubtedly was greatly augmented at the time of the disaster by the hundreds of tourists who flocked to the Orient this summer. State department records show that travel this summer in Japan has been unusually heavy.

Load Army Transports

Knowlton Mixer, chairman of the Red Cross chapter at Manila, received orders by cable from Red Cross headquarters here to purchase food supplies he deemed necessary and to place them aboard the army transports Merritt and Meigs, leaving Manila within the next twenty-four hours for Yokohama.

The government, it was declared officially at the White House, would employ all its resources in aiding the stricken people of Japan.

Announcement was made also of steps taken by the United States shipping board, by the direction of the president, to furnish ships to move relief supplies across the Pacific. Chairman Farley of the shipping board wrote President Coolidge:

Send Orders to Ships

"Instructions have been wirelessly and cabled all masters of shipping board vessels in Pacific waters to get in touch at once with Admiral E. A. Anderson, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, for relief services. Instructions have also been issued to the Admiral Oriental line and the Pacific Mail Steamship company operating passenger and freight vessels out of Seattle and San Francisco, respectively, and the Columbia Pacific Shipping company and Struthers & Berry, operating freight steamers out of Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles, respectively, to withhold further bookings of both passengers and freight for steamers sailing within the next thirty days, in order to make such space available for

Council Will Consider Bus Line Applications

Applications for permission to conduct auto bus lines on various streets of the city will again be considered at the meeting of the City Council next Thursday night.

This was announced at last night's meeting of the officials. And, too, it was intimated that a final decision will be made then.

The Pacific Electric Railway company and the Verdugo Hills Transportation company are seeking permits. It is understood at the city hall the Long Beach concern that asked for time in which to make an investigation as to whether it wanted to seek a permit, has decided not to file an application.

"The transportation question is a vital one to Glendale and we must take action immediately," declared Councilman Sam Davis.

Elks Band Attired In Nifty New Suits

Nifty purple and white uniforms will dazzle the eyes of California "Bills" gathered at Eureka September 19, 20, 21 and 22, when the Glendale Elks' band will burst into harmony to announce the arrival in the convention city of the Glendale-Pasadena special, that leaves for the north Tuesday, September 18.

Neatly tailored purple uniform cloth coats, military cut, with white silk braid and white numerals for trimming, white flannel trousers, white socks and shoes and white caps compose the costume ensemble of the thirty-five members and the drum major and leader of the Glendale Elks' band.

The suits were ordered through Ed Nisle, clothier of 135 1/2 South Brand boulevard, and several days ago when the first suit arrived it attracted much attention

Semi-Annual Sale Is Marked by Low Prices

The first semi-annual sale of the Good Housekeeping Shop, 140 South Brand, is in full swing for the rest of this week, and starting sacrifices are being made on all kinds of kitchen appliances that form an essential part of the furnishings of any well-equipped home today. All metal top porcelain tables are being sold at prices below manufacturers' costs today, it is claimed; vacuum cleaners and washing machines are going at sacrifice figures, and gas ranges of fifty different styles are also going at low prices.

The sale will conclude Saturday night, and the amount of the sales up till today is said to augur a most important volume of business for the next three shopping days.

Five Arrests In Raid On Seal Beach Cafes

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—Two Seal Beach cafes were raided Tuesday by federal prohibition officers from San Francisco and deputy sheriffs from Orange county. As a result of the raid four men and one woman are in the county jail charged with violation of the national liquor laws. The woman is Mrs. Lillian Blankenship, owner of the Seal Inn, and is said to have been arrested twice before for the same violation. Jim Finerich, head waiter, was also arrested. PLAN CROSSINGS OVER S. P. TRACKS

Railroad Commission Will Be Asked to Probe Matter By Foothill Assn.

Plans are being developed by the Glendale Foothill Improvement Association to take up with the railroad commission the matter of crossings over the Southern Pacific tracks along San Fernando road, it was learned at their meeting held last night in the auditorium of the Grand View school. President Alexander Mitchell presiding.

The City Council has ordered a crossing at Justin avenue, it was reported, but the proposed crossings at Roberta and Winchester avenues are being held up.

A report on the proposed lighting district was turned in but laid on the table pending more information on the subject. Letters were read from the City Council regarding the matter of lowering the Pacific Electric tracks, and from the Chamber of Commerce on the purchase of the lots at the head of Cerritos avenue, the site of the new Southern Pacific station.

Mrs. M. B. Buckman, secretary of the association, was ordered to notify the proper authorities to have newboys at the Western avenue and Fourth street Pacific Electric station cease leaving their papers there to be scattered about the district by the wind.

The next meeting of the Glendale Foothill Improvement Association, which will be the occasion of the annual election of officers, is announced for the night of October 2, at the Grand View school.

Firpo Feeling Fine For Coming Contest

Newton Electrics in Twilight League Game

The Newton Electric and another local team will clash tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Glendale Union high school grounds, in one of the second series of Twilight league baseball games.

Last night, heavy silence marked the twilight hour on the grounds, the City Engineers winning from the Postmen by default.

Yankee Pitcher Joins Baseball Immortals

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Sam Jones, veteran pitcher of the New York Yankees, yesterday became a baseball immortal, when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Philadelphia this afternoon. It was Jones' eighteenth victory of the season.

Only two Philadelphia players reached first base. In the first inning Galloway received a base on balls and in the eighth inning an error by Scott enabled Welch to get to the first sack.

The final score was 2 to 0. "Whitey" Witt, the young Yankee outfielder, poked out a single in the third inning, scoring two runners.

Double Knockout in Larue-Pancho Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A double knockout ended the scheduled 12-round bout of Gene Larue, Canadian flyweight champion, and Kid Pancho, claimant of the southern flyweight belt in the fourth round here last night. Both fighters came from their corners with a rush at the start of the round. Larue landed a solid left to the jaw. Simultaneously Pancho connected with a right to the chin. Each man fell to the canvas and neither was up at the count of ten.

Larue, first to regain consciousness, attempted to resume the fight but was halted by the referee.

TAGGING ALL BASES

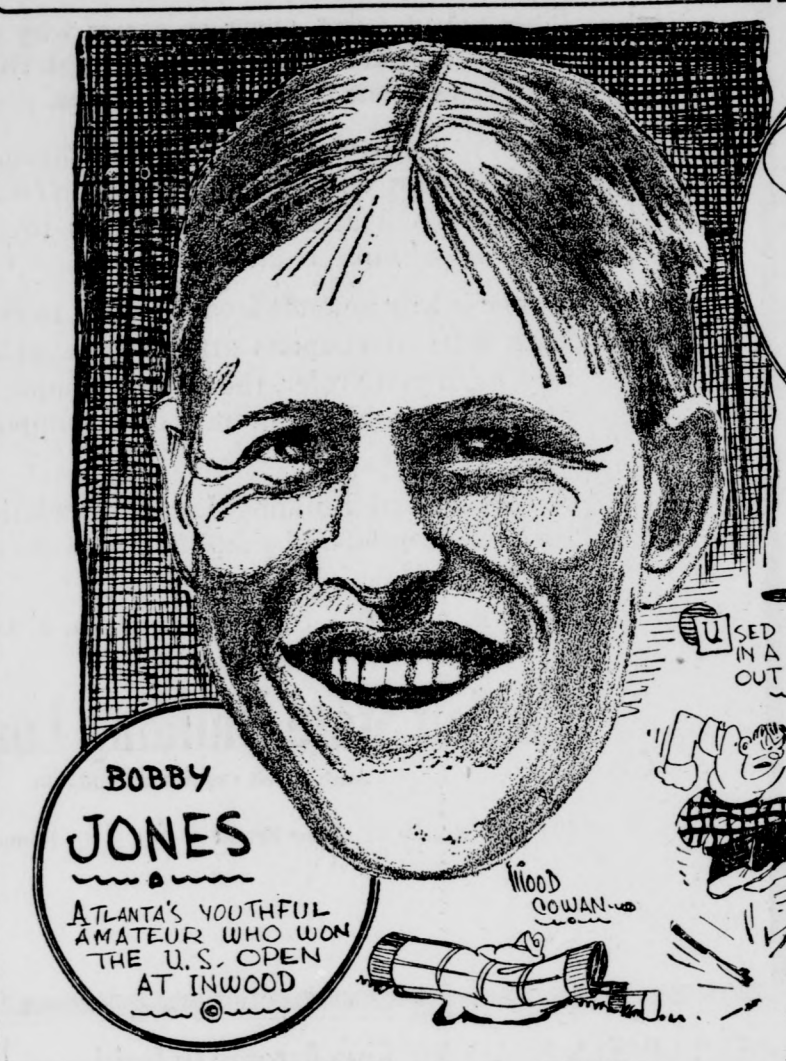

Boy, bring a niche for Mr. Jones, of the New York Yankees. He shut out the Athletics without a hit, the Yankees winning 2 to 0. It was the first hitless game in the majors this season. Three men reached first base on a pass, an error by Scott and a force play.

In a duel of left hands, Rixey bested Cooper and the Reds beat the Pirates 2 to 1.

The Cubs gained a rolling fall over the Cardinals, 3 to 2.

DUNDEE READY TO CLAIM TITLE

'They Won't Make Me Goat' He Says, Regarding Canceled Fight

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Benny Leonard-Johnny Dundee fight was declared off this afternoon after the New York Athletic commission had supported Jimmy Johnston, promoter, in his action in postponing the match scheduled for tonight until later in the month.

Under those conditions Bobby's victory is all the more glorious. When Bobby Jones was five he was a very sickly boy and several specialists had given him up. He was interested in but one thing, the doing of golfers who played over the Eastlake links across the road from where he lived.

Finally his parents, at someone's suggestion, got him a set of small clubs and turned him loose on the links. He showed a natural aptitude for the game right from the start. One of his warmest friends was Stewart Maiden, professional at the Atlanta club. It was Maiden's tutoring that has made Bobby the golfer he is today. Among his playmates were Alex Stirling, many times holder of the woman's national championship, and Perry Adair, who has won many sectional honors.

Jones developed so rapidly that at the age of twelve he captured the southern title from a strong field.

In 1916, a stocky kid in his first set of long trousers, he came north and competed in his first national tournament at Merion. Here he qualified easily and in one of the early rounds encountered Bill Fownes, a former national champion. On one of his tee shots Bobby sliced into a small stone quarry. It looked like an impossible lie.

Strolling over to his young opponent's ball, Fownes inquired: "Going to pick it up, Mr. Jones?"

"Pick it up, hell!" shot back the quick-tempered Bobby. "With this," and with a mighty swing of a niblick he sent the ball sailing off to land close to the distant flag.

Jones won his match from Fownes. And his nerve is still a feature of his play.

In former times Bobby's temper often got the best of him. His favorite way of showing his displeasure was throwing away his clubs. He often depleted his supply before he had completed the round.

One of his greatest achievements is the complete mastery of this temper that was so difficult to control.

Jones has always been a hard luck player. The Jinx has been on the job wherever he has played. When you consider that Bobby's average in the last four open tournaments is fourteen strokes below any other golfer, you know that hard luck must have played a big part in his failure to win a national title before this.

Last year at Brookline, Sweetser broke the course to defeat him in the semi-finals for the national amateur title. Three years ago Bobby finished eighth at Toledo, where Ted Ray won. He was fifth at Columbia and last year at Skokie he tied for second place with old John Black, one stroke back of Gene Sarazen.

A signal honor came to Alec Macdougall of 128 West Elk avenue when he was awarded first prize in the bagpipe competition for amateurs at the Scotch picnic at Eagle Rock Park, which he attended Monday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Macdougall.

Alec is 15 years old, and his competitors were much older in experience as well as years.

He received his first instruction in the art of playing the pipes from Harry H. Fraser of the local post office, less than two years ago, and has made notable progress in the short period of time.

Evening News' Reputation Prohibition Vexing Problem America And Its Charity Give Us Busses And Light

By Gil A. Cowan

REPUTATION of The Glendale Evening News is spreading. Michigan, visited this office yesterday and told us what a wonderful paper we have here in Glendale.

Many are the compliments being received on the big way in which The Evening News is handling world events with its International News Service leased wire, its Central Press Association and George Matthews Adams features, not to mention several others.

Little wonder at the expression of admiration voiced by the man from Michigan; little wonder that The Glendale Evening News is selling more papers on the streets, over the counter and at the newsstands than ever before; little wonder that twelve to twenty new subscriptions are being received daily. Incidentally, cash accompanies the orders.

More news, more circulation, more advertising, more prestige—that's what makes a going, growing concern worth while. We are too busy to envy anyone, and The Glendale Evening News is proud that it is the only real daily newspaper published here which is not circulated as a minor part of some medium of Los Angeles advertising.

The Glendale Evening News is no supplement—it is a complete daily newspaper printed and published in Glendale, the fastest growing city in America. And when you mail it to friends back in Michigan—or anywhere else—you will need offer no excuses. No, siree!

Prohibition is a national problem which President Coolidge proposes to tackle at an early date. He is arranging for a conference of governors, according to International News Service dispatches, in which every phase of the vexatious violations of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution will be considered.

Certainly, the time is ripe for action. Either the law is to be obeyed or new laws enacted which will be enforced and obeyed. The present statutes seem insufficient to cope with the liquor evil. It would appear that the only way for the government to rid the country of the curse of moonshine, home brew and other poisonous concoctions is to make the manufacture of the stuff a felony, as well as jail sentences for those who possess it.

The time has come when the speed of the world, the motor age, if you please, demands the elimination of booze. And if habitual toppers insist on having their snifter, the rest of the populace can well afford to keep them on some island especially fitted for an alcoholic colony.

There was a day when a man's horse would get a drunken driver safely home, provided there were no railroad crossing accidents, but automobiles demand sobriety.

The League of Nations finds itself in a quandary. Mr. Musolini, fascist ruler of Italy, politely tells that august assemblage he cares not for its edicts.

The United States may congratulate itself on being no part or parcel of the league. Thanks are due Senator Hiram Johnson of California and the so-called "irreconcilables" of the senate.

And, while Italy and Greece are settling a little difference, this country may expend its efforts in the relief of suffering Japan. American relief is a much better investment than soldiers and bullets and war.

Turkey and Russia are our friends today! Japan will be our ally of tomorrow when the country realizes we have their best interests at heart. China well knows our humanitarian efforts in behalf of all races, all colors and all creeds.

And America itself is a League of Nations, made up as it is of every nationality.

The business men of Glendale desire local bus lines to bring patrons to their stores. They deserve this consideration.

The Merchants' Credit association is taking an active interest in this subject. The City Council is considering the matter.

The time has come when it is necessary for Glendale must promote business to the fullest extent. If the cross-town busses will help, let's have them.

No need of permitting all transportation systems to lead out of Glendale!

While we are thinking of local improvements, why not more lights for the boulevards? Central avenue has obtained the order for two-light standards. San Fernando road has been wonderfully improved by its boulevard lighting.

Something better for Broadway and Brand boulevard is in order.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—George Joseph Demotte, internationally known antique dealer of Paris and New York, was accidentally shot and killed by a member of his hunting party near St. Jean, according to dispatch received here.

"Her Fatal Millions" shows Viola Dana in another of her popular roles. The story is by William Dudley Pelley, directed by William Beaudine. This combination could mean nothing but riotous comedy-drama.

Consider for yourself if this isn't a funny situation—a girl who borrowed jewels, furs, a limousine and even a husband, in order to pose as a millionairess, with the accent on the "heirs." Why did she do it? Because her old sweetheart was coming and she didn't want him to suspect she was poor.

THE GATEWAY

Author, star, producer and director all achieve triumph in "The Woman He Loved," written by William V. Mong, who takes the leading role in this fine J. L. Frothingham production directed by Edward S. Selman.

The story is of the infant son of Nathan and Esther Levinsky, branded with a cross by a drunken Cossack. The family comes to America, where Esther deserts her husband and allows the boy to be brought up by the Danvers family. Years later, on a western ranch, Nathan recognizes in David Danvers his son. The drama and romance that ensue are very real.

"The Woman He Loved" is a strong picture, capably, almost lavishly made, and calculated to have a wide appeal. The cast includes, beside William V. Mong, Marcia Manon and Edward Sutherland.

Radio Corporation Gives News of Catastrophe to International Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Through the courtesy of George E. Baxter, city superintendent of the Radio Corporation of America here, the world was kept informed of the greatest catastrophe ever suffered by Japan on Saturday and Sunday.

A Japanese wireless operator at the Nippon government's Iwaki station, three miles from the village of Tomioka, with which the San Francisco Radio corporation is in constant direct communication, flashed the news of the great disaster which annihilated a score or more cities and towns with their entire population, to San Francisco.

As rapidly as the bulletins were received from Iwaki, they were distributed to International News Service, other press agencies and newspapers.

When all other communication with the island empire was severed by the disastrous fire, an aftermath of the severe seismic disturbances, the Radio corporation was in direct touch with Tomioka, and through this agency the world was able to determine the deplorable loss of life and suffering.

Emanating from Iwaki station is a veritable net work of land wires normally, linking the principal populous centers of the congested island, but during the initial severe earth shocks, communication was paralyzed.

There are approximately fifty Japanese operators at Tomioka, which is 144 miles northeast of Tokio.

TWO AND ONE-HALF BILLIONS' DAMAGE, ESTIMATE OF EMBASSY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 5.—The holocaust which swept the island empire of Japan has wrought a property loss of $2,500,000,000, it was stated at the Japanese embassy here today, after reading dispatches which gave meager details of the catastrophe. It was explained the damage might mount into billions more if later reports show the destruction to be as complete outside Tokio as it was in the capital city.

The minimum estimate of damage was as follows:
Tokio, $1,000,000,000.
Yokohama, $100,000,000.
Nagoya, $50,000,000.
Shipping, $250,000,000.
Other cities, $1,100,000,000.

With at least 10,000,000 living in the path swept by earthquakes, tidal waves, typhoons and fire, embassy officials feared the toll of human lives would reach the highest estimates of 500,000 dead as carried in news dispatches.

Need Vast Supply
Embassy officials have estimated that Japan would need $500,000,000 worth of supplies from the United States in rehabilitating the destroyed cities. Of this total, at least $250,000,000 worth of lumber will be needed, it was said. The remainder will consist of clothing, blankets, factory machinery and foodstuffs.

"The work of rehabilitation will be started at once," an embassy official told International News Service. At least $250,000,000 worth of lumber will be needed from the United States. We will also need huge supplies of foodstuffs, clothing, tents, blankets and machinery at once.

Turn to United States
"Most of the reconstruction work, of course, will be done with lumber, as frame dwellings are a peculiar Japanese custom which not even a catastrophe such as this one can change. Japanese builders are accustomed to buying America lumber because it is cheaper than native supplies and naturally they will turn to the United States in this disaster."

"The work of rehabilitation will be greatly aided by the fact that Osaka, the so-called Pittsburgh of Japan was not damaged. Many great factories are located there and will be ready to turn out supplies for reconstruction work."

"A complete estimate of the property loss cannot be made at this time because so many details of the disaster are lacking. For instance the prefecture of Tokio has a value of $18,500,000,000. The city could be entirely wiped out and yet billions of this value saved, for it includes the ground values, the good will of industries and money."

Fear for Art Objects

"On the other hand, many of the shrines and temples and great art collections probably were destroyed. These cannot be replaced at any cost. One single collection in Tokio, consisting of only a few pieces, was valued at $4,000,000. Such losses, if they occurred, may add millions to any estimate we can make now."

"In the work of reconstruction Japan can furnish its own labor and all the work of organization can be accomplished by its own citizens but it will need supplies from the world and particularly from the United States. This tragedy will only weld closer the ties of friendship between our two nations."

800 PATIENTS IN HOSPITAL PERISH

Bedridden Japanese Burn To Death; Congressman Ackerman Safe

PEKING, Sept. 5.—The terrific earthquake and subsequent fire took a toll of 150,000 lives in Tokio, it was estimated by metropolitan police after a preliminary survey, stated a report from Tokio received here today. The homeless were listed at 250,000. The same source estimated casualties in Yokohama at 100,000.

The only newspaper not totally destroyed in the capital city was the Nichi Nichi. The machines were damaged to such an extent, however, as to make publication impossible. Eight hundred bedridden patients at the University hospital were cremated without a chance to save themselves.

Mrs. A. L. Ferguson's Brother Safe at Kobe

Erle R. Dickover, United States consul in Kobe, Japan, brother of Mrs. A. L. Ferguson of 525 North Jackson street, has commandeered United States trading vessels and is sending relief to the devastated country 300 miles north of Kobe.

Mrs. Ferguson, through her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Dickover of Santa Barbara, received a cablegram from her brother yesterday only one word in length. It read "Safe."

Mr. Dickover has been in Japan nine years and has been located in Kobe two years.

Community Band Will Meet for Rehearsal

CARS IN COLLISION

An automobile belonging to Harold D. Thomas of 1227 East Lexington Drive, which was parked on Broadway between Brand boulevard and Orange street, was backed into by another car driven by a woman whose name he did not ascertain. The tail light and rear fenders on his machine were damaged.

PREACHES SUNDAY

Rev. R. G. Morgan of 203 West Elk street occupied the pulpit on Sunday at both services of the First Baptist church. Many of the members of the congregations went to the pulpit following his sermons to thank him for his messages.

inundated with not a trace remaining. Oshima was the largest island of the Izu group.

Banks' Funds Lost
The Far Eastern Review here received a cable from the stricken country, indicating that its offices were destroyed, but the fate of its personnel was not given. The cable added that all the banks in Tokio and Yokohama were reduced to debris and funds were unavailable.

From Peking came reports that 10,000 refugees who had taken refuge in the military depot at Tokio were burned to death.

All cities, towns and hamlets of Idzu, Tokadeo, Boso and Miura peninsulas were wiped out. The total population of the peninsula is more than 100,000.

Two hundred and sixteen distinct earthquake shocks were felt in Yokohama and Tokio last Saturday. Fifty-seven of the tremors were felt in a three-hour period, from 8 to 11 a. m.

Warships Bring Aid
Six warships, laden with immediate necessities, have reached Yokohama harbor from the Japanese naval station at Kure.

Only an approximate estimate of the loss of life will ever be known. In many cases the devastating fire entirely obliterated all trace of humanity. Thousands were drowned in the engulfing huge tidal waves.

Navigation in the harbor at Yokohama is impossible. The floor of the bay has been raised to such a degree as to make it unsafe for vessels. Lighthouses were washed away. Numerous craft, including the steamer Selma City, have been beached.

Among the dead of the Japanese nobility are Princess Hiroko Kanin at Kamakura; Prince Moromasa Higashikuni at Odawara, and Mother Princess Yamashima at Kugenuma.

Relief Ships En Route
The response for relief from a sympathetic world was instantaneous. Relief ships have already arrived off Yokohama and hundreds of others heavily laden with food, clothing and medical supplies, are en route to Japan.

The government at Osaka, where it was moved from Tokio, is functioning and relief measures have started to ameliorate the unspeakable suffering.

The intense suffering of the refugees, who lined the destroyed railway right of way out of Tokio and Yokohama for miles, was aggravated by torrential rains.

Refugees who made their way into Kobe reported that at least one hundred foreigners had been killed in Yokohama. Japanese newspaper men who were forced to walk from Yokohama to Osaka reported that the damage to the countryside adjacent to the larger cities was as great as that in the cities. The casualties were not so high, however.

320,000 Die in Four Cities, Says Osaka Newspaper

OSAKA, Japan, Sept. 5.—Estimates of the dead in the stricken cities of Japan, by the Asahi, a local newspaper, are as follows:

Tokio, 150,000.
Yokohama, 100,000.
Yokosuka, 60,000.
Aomi, 10,000.

Thousands of persons lost their lives in the country districts.

Refugees arriving here last night confirmed reports that the Japanese disaster took an appalling toll of 500,000 lives.

dor said it was still impossible to tell how many Americans had been killed or injured.

The food situation remains acute throughout the stricken area despite the arrival of ships with supplies.

While the government has no exact figures on the number of Americans in the devastated areas of Japan, inquiries have been made concerning the safety of approximately 3,000 Americans believed or feared to have been in the Orient at the time of the catastrophe, it was learned today.

REGISTRATION DAY AT HIGH SCHOOL SET FOR TUESDAY

Handbook of Courses Being Printed; Teachers to Meet on Monday

Everything is in readiness, according to Principal George U. Moyle, for next week's re-opening of Glendale Union High school. General registration will take place Tuesday with juniors and seniors enrolling in the morning between 9 and 12 o'clock, and freshmen and sophomore enrolling in the afternoon between 1 and 4 o'clock. These periods for registration will apply to all students who were in the local high school last semester and to pupils entering from the Glendale grammar schools.

An exception will be made in the case of students entering from other high schools. They will be required to present credit certificates from their previous school. These will be examined by the local high school executives Tuesday night. If they are satisfactory and their possessors can be properly classified, the students will be allowed to enter their classes the following day.

Work Commences Wednesday
Regular school work will commence Wednesday, September 12. Mr. Moyle denied the rumor that all next week will be consumed by registrations. He called attention to the fact that all pupils in school last term and all those graduating from the local grammar schools filled in application cards showing the elective subjects desired this term. He stated emphatically that nothing would be gained by having the registration protracted.

"Everything is in readiness for the opening of school," asserted Mr. Moyle. "We have been working for months getting all the details arranged so that things will move with the utmost efficiency."

A new handbook is now being printed and Tuesday will be distributed to the students. This will include the courses of study, programs for the different subjects, list of classes, school regulations, the institutions of the student body and the girls' league and general information in regard to Glendale Union High school.

Aids Los Angeles
The Los Angeles board has made an agreement with the high school board here to accept all students from the Atwater tract, all Eagle Rock pupils living west of Windemere or College View avenue, which is within a radius of a mile from the new plant, and all Eagle Rock students who attended the local high school last term.

As a financial adjustment of the cost of tuition for these students, who live outside the Glendale Union High School district, the Los Angeles board has agreed to pay the pro-rata share of their (Continued on page 4)

Policemen Will Have Their Beats Nicely Lighted

FEAR that on some "dark and stormy night" a bold, bad bandit might enter a Glendale policeman into a dark alley and then and there shoot him to death, was expressed by Chief of Police John D. Fraser at the meeting of the City Council last night. And so he asked for lights—lots of 'em.

Chief Fraser declared the alleys in the business district of the city are too dark at night for a policeman to safely make his tour of inspection for, as explained by the chief, a bandit might easily hide in the shadows of the alley and "pick" off the officer.

"That's true," commented Mayor Spencer Robinson. "What's the solution?"

And the chief declared the council should authorize the plant production department of the city to string lights through the alleys in the business district. On motion of Councilman Sam Davis such action was taken.

City officials, during the City Council meeting last night, became all heated up. Some became so aroused that they pulled off their coats!

No, there was no argument, no threatened fist fight, no hint of trouble. It was the heat. The City Council chamber became warm from Southern California sunshine, and the night was warm, too. So Mayor Spencer Robinson pulled off his coat. Councilman Sam Davis followed suit—or coat, rather. Councilmen C. E. Kimlin and W. A. Horn were in Palm Beach—suits, of course—and they didn't have to peel. Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, proved he wears suspenders. And newspapermen showed they wear shirts. And other city employees shed style for comfort.

Not one 'citizen or taxpayer' attended the council meeting last night, hence the officials had nothing to worry about as regards good looks.

Golden Wedding Observed By J. H. Franklins With Family Dinner and Reception

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff

THE end of a half century of happiness, dating from September 2, 1873, when a young Illinoisan, John H. Franklin, 20 years old, claimed as his bride at a home wedding in Richmond, Mo., Miss Irene Hudgins, two years his junior, was celebrated last night by a dinner at Jensen's Egyptian Village and an informal home reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, who are now residents of Glendale at 246 North Central.

A golden wedding is always a time of reminiscing and a happy gathering together of relatives and close friends, and the Franklins' fiftieth anniversary was full of happiness for them, for they had gathered about them their three daughters and three sons and seven of their nine grandchildren.

Going back across the years to the time when a golden anniversary was far distant in the future, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin recall their home wedding in Richmond. Mr. Franklin grew up in his native town of Macomb, Ill., and went down to Missouri to work, and, while there, fell in love with Miss Hudgins, a Missouri girl. Among the guests at their wedding was James Lane Allen, the novelist.

With keen ambitions for a professional career, young John Franklin took up the study of law, and, after completing his study, took Mrs. Franklin to Macomb with him for a residence of three years, during which time he served as city attorney.

Wins Public Office
From Macomb City, Kan., and there, as county attorney, Mr. Franklin saw the prohibition law passed, and he started the first prosecution proceedings under it. Russell, Kan., was the next home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, and during their five years' residence there Mr. Franklin was honored with appointment as one of the regents of the State Normal school. He also served as mayor of Russell one term.

At this time a national honor came to him, an appointment from President Benjamin Harrison as deputy second auditor of the United States treasury, now auditor of the war department. His duties required his residence in Washington, D. C., and it was his and Mrs. Franklin's privilege to live in the capital city for four years, at one of the most interesting periods in the nation's history.

Meets Many Politicians
The country was just returning to normalcy after the great Civil War and the majority of the great statesmen and military men who had participated in that conflict were still living, and many of them were in Washington. In his official capacity, Mr. Franklin came in contact with them all and knew many of them personally.

Theodore Roosevelt was then a young man and Mr. Franklin recalls seeing him at a Republican convention and remarking to a companion, "There's a man who will one day be president of the United States."

At the end of his service in Washington Mr. and Mrs. Franklin returned to Illinois, residing in Marshall county, Mr. Franklin serving as state's attorney for eight years.

Keep Moving West
Fifteen years later they moved to Lawton, Oklahoma, where they lived ten years. According to Mr. Franklin, Lawton was a unique city, for it was a full-grown city from the start. It was laid out in detail by the government, and when it was formally founded the population was 10,000.

It was in 1917 that Mr. and Mrs. Franklin became Glendaleans and the many friends they have made while here join with the hosts in other parts of California and eastern states in wishing them happiness on their golden wedding, and added joys in the years to come.

List of Guests
Gathered about Mr. and Mrs. Franklin at the 6 o'clock dinner last night at the Egyptian Village were their daughter, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker of Glendale; their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin and children, Isabel, John and Josephine of 317 West Lexington drive, Glendale; their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, Okla.; their daughter, Mrs. Charles F. Robbins and baby son, Charles Franklin, of Glendora, N. Y.; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Head and children, Nancy Blake, Mary Wirt and Richard Franklin of Ardmore, Okla.; their son, Harry Franklin, of Ardmore, Okla.; their niece and nephew, Mrs. Maude Gaugh and Judge Dean Franklin of Kansas City, Mo.; their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Chapman of Fullerton, and their close friend, John Hyde Braly of Glendale.

From the cafe the Franklin party motored to the home on North Central avenue, where friends were received informally from 8 till 10 o'clock.

Other Guests Received
Among the guests received were Miss Sara P. Grogan and Mrs. L. F. Snow of Washington, D. C., old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, who are spending several months in Glendale.

NEED FOR MORE VET FARM LOAN MONEY REVEALED

Many Former Service Men
Cannot Share in Small
State Bond Issue

Although ex-service men from California will not be able to benefit under the present status of the Veterans' Farm and Home Loan Act.

Announcement of this fact is made by Attorney James F. McBryde of 111 East Broadway, former commander of Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion.

This subject was one of the most important discussed at last week's state Legion convention at Eureka, according to Mr. McBryde, who was the local delegate.

Although a state bond issue for $10,000,000 was voted at the November election as capital for farm and home loans to California veterans, it has been found that this sum will scarcely be sufficient to take care of the disabled applicants. This means that California ex-service men in good health have no chance to obtain loans.

Need Another Issue
Another bond issue of $30,000,000 or $40,000,000 will be necessary to extend the benefits of this act to all California veterans in the opinion of Attorney McBryde.

He added that this would have to be voted upon at a state election. He called attention to the fact that there are two means of getting this subject on the ballot again: First, by act of the next legislature, which can not consider the subject until the spring (Continued on page 4)

Publication

With the return of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones from a sojourn at Hermosa Beach, activity of the Glendale Music club is being revived and the first interest of the club members is the completion of the club year book, under the direction of Mrs. Warren Roberts, club treasurer.

"It is essential that every club member give the year book special consideration," says Mrs. Jones. "For in it we are going to have listed all the artists and music teachers in the club, as well as other members. It will be invaluable to those taking active parts in the music profession because in it will be registered all club artists and teachers, their (Continued on page 4)

COAST CHAPTERS ARE INSTRUCTED TO SEND MONEY

Glendale Red Cross Prepares
To Launch Drive to Collect Funds

Chairmen of the three hundred Red Cross chapters in the Pacific coast states have been requested by William Carl Hunt, manager of the Pacific Coast division of the organization, to give active aid in handling funds for the relief of the sufferers in the Japanese earthquake. Hunt's message reads:

"National headquarters requests all Red Cross chapters to be prepared to receive and promptly transmit to division office contributions of money from public. Same should be designated 'Japanese earthquake relief.' President Coolidge designates Red Cross as authoritative American agency for relief."

Pacific Quota $400,000

The quota of the $5,000,000 to be raised by the American Red Cross in the Pacific Coast division has been fixed at $400,000, and Manager Hunt will advise every chapter in his division as to the amount that it will be expected to raise. No contributions of clothing or supplies will be asked at this time, as it is estimated that it will take from sixty to ninety days to rush these supplies to the destitute Japanese, and quicker action is demanded if the survivors in the wrecked areas are to be cared for before starvation and pestilence take their awful toll.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 333 West Broadway, chairman of the Glendale chapter of the Red Cross, has been holding conferences with the (Continued on page 4)

TODAY—London Improves Morally; But Crime Is Increasing.
TOMORROW—War Again at Camp Kearney, by William G. Cayce, Los Angeles Bureau.

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, Aug. 5.—London is getting better over year, according to Sir William Horwood, Commissioner of Police and head of that world-famed institution known as Scotland Yard.

Sir William made his declaration in the face of official statistics showing that there were more murders, more frauds and more drunkenness in London in 1922 than in the preceding year. His assertion is based on total crime statistics, and the aggregate, despite higher figures in the classes of offenses mentioned, is lower for 1922 than for 1921.

There was a decrease of 1,426, the commissioner reveals in his annual report, in the number of indictable offenses, chiefly burglary and larceny, in 1922 as compared with 1921. The figures were 17,405 such cases in 1921 and 15,979 in 1922.

There was also a decrease recorded in the value of stolen property. In 1922 $3,117,429 worth of property was stolen as compared with $3,676,229 in 1921. The amount of stolen property recovered during 1922 was greater by approximately $250,000 than in the preceding year.

Cases of burglary in 1922 were 461 less than in the previous year, and arrests for this offense consequently fell off.

Probably one of the most interesting revelations, from an American standpoint, which Sir William makes deals with thefts of automobiles and motor vehicles.

In England during 1922 there were only 253 automobiles stolen. During the same period 240 motorcycles were purloined. In London, which probably has as many motor cars as the rest of the country put together, there were only 327 motor cars and cycles reported stolen. This is a decrease of 297 as compared with 1921. A tribute to the efficiency of the London police is found in the fact that out of 327 vehicles stolen 314 were recovered.

In 1922 there were twenty-six murders in London as compared with twenty-one in the preceding year. Sixteen murderers out of the twenty-six were tried, thirteen being convicted and executed and three found to be insane.

Figures dealing with drunkenness apparently indicate that Britons are becoming less temperate. There was a total of 30,799 arrests for intoxication in 1922, which is 3,389 more than in 1921. Although "regulation" liquor is plentiful in England, where prohibition does not exist, it is interesting to note that there were eighty men and women arrested for drinking methylated spirits last year in contrast to fifty-eight in 1921.

Cases involving fraud, the report shows, increased from 1,464 in 1921 to 1,542 in 1922.

The finger-print department of Scotland Yard apparently is very busy, for Sir William reports that the bureau now has on record the digital impressions of no less than 379,110 persons. More than 15,000 criminals were identified by their fingerprints during the year.

Bookmakers and dancehall proprietors, Sir William asserts, are among the most prolific sources of police irritation. The problem of regulating dancing clubs, he admits, is as yet unsolved, while the most vigorous activities of the police have been unavailing against the bookmakers who haunt the streets for the accommodation of those who seek to back their alleged knowledge of race horses with their coin.

RADIO BY FRANK CHAPMAN

A COURSE IN RADIO—PRODUCTION OF WAVES

At some time in your life you have picked up a stone and thrown it into a body of still water, such as a pond or small lake, and you have noticed ripples or waves spread outward in a circle from the spot the stone hit. If there were any leaves or chips of wood on the surface of the pond, these ripples disturbed them but did not carry them along with them. Radio waves do about the same thing as they spread out in a similar manner but the wave motion is set up by an electrical discharge. They are called electromagnetic waves and are supposed to travel the all pervading "ether". Do not ask what ether is, for scientists have used that word merely because they do not know what conducts the electromagnetic waves through space. Ether has the property of disturbing adjoining space when a disturbance is set up in it, and this disturbance travels in wave motion.

The wave motion in the ether is similar to the wave motion in a lake or sea, the other waves being regular in their arrangement and they also move faster. Their speed is 186,000 miles per second, or the speed of light.

Another experiment can be illustrated. Take a long rope and fasten it at one end and take the free end and give it a snappy movement such as you would do in trying to snap a whip. Your snap will transmit a wave motion up and down the entire length of the rope, from this we will see that two things are needed for wave motion; first a disturbing force and a medium through which the wave motion may travel.

Comparing water waves with a curve of a radio wave (shown in the drawing) we find that each complete wave consists of two parts, an up motion (the crest) and a down motion (the trough). They are alike in shape but opposite in direction. The distance from the top of the wave is above the smooth water line and the depth of the trough below the level, is called the amplitude of the wave. The distance from the beginning of one wave to the beginning of the next wave is known as its wave length. This wave length is measured in meters and not feet. A meter is little more than a yard, 39.3 inches.

There are two kinds of frequency, low and high. In radio we deal with high frequency, or the number of complete waves made per second of time. In water, if you move an object up and down in it, the slower you move it, the longer will be the wave produced, while if it is moved rapidly, the waves produced are short. If each wave you made is four feet long and you made three waves every second, then the waves move outward with a velocity of (4x3) or twelve feet per second. This gives us the formula that frequency times wave length gives velocity; or velocity equals frequency times wave length.

Radio waves travel at the same velocity 300,000,000 meters per second or 186,000 miles, which is more than seven times around the earth. Radio waves travel at this rate from the smallest amateur stations as well as the high powered ones, but the big stations create a disturbance which lasts longer and therefore travels farther than the smaller stations. The same is true of the disturbing object you had in the water. If it was a large object it would

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BUNTY'S PLAY HOUSE
"Dear me!" exclaimed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day, when the Robin bird had left the mail at the hollow stump bungalow. "I never counted on this!"

She was reading a letter written on a piece of white birch bark with blackberry juice for ink.

"What's the trouble?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

The rabbit gentleman's Cabbage Leaf Gazette newspaper had come in the mail and he was reading that.

"Is anyone ill and do you have to go look after them?" asked Mr. Longears, as he saw his muskrat lady housekeeper reading her letter once more.

"Nothing like that," she answered, "But Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, writes to say that Baby Bunty is coming to spend a few days with us. Bunty has been visiting Mrs. Twistytail, but now the little rabbit girl is coming to us."

"Well, that's all right," said Uncle Wiggily. "I like Baby Bunty."

"So do I," agreed Nurse Jane. "But just now, when I am so very busy canning carrots and turnips for the winter, Baby Bunty will only be in the way. You know what a lively little tyke she is—always wanting you to tag her, or go roller skating or something like that!"

"Yes, Bunty is very lively!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, "and I know you are very busy, Nurse Jane. But leave her to me. I'll fix it so she won't bother you. I'll amuse her."

"Well, then it will be all right," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "And when Baby Bunty came the next day, with her little bag in which she carried her nightie, the muskrat lady smiled and said:

"Welcome to the hollow stump bungalow!"

"Oh! I just love to come here!" cried Baby Bunty. "Tag! You're it!" she laughed, as she tapped Nurse Jane on the back.

"I haven't time to play!" Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy exclaimed. "I must go can some cabbage to make short cake in the winter. Your Uncle Wiggily is very fond of cabbage short cake. He will play with you."

"Come on, Baby Bunty!" called the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, that will be fun," cried Bunty and she raced about playing tag and hide the croquet ball.

But, after a while, even Uncle Wiggily was tired of hopping around with lively little Baby Bunty. So the rabbit gentleman twinkled his pink nose and said: "Go out in the yard and build yourself a play house. Bunty. You will find a lot of corn cobs there, some cabbage stalks and some blocks of wood. Make yourself a play house."

"Oh, that will be fun," cried Baby Bunty. And then the hollow stump bungalow became quiet, for Bunty was out in the yard. After a while Nurse Jane said:

"Don't you think you'd better look after Bunty, Uncle Wiggily? I haven't heard her singing or making any noise for a long time. Maybe she has run away or fallen in the well or something like that."

"My goodness! I'd better look!" cried the rabbit, and out he hopped. In the yard of the hollow stump bungalow he found Bunty had built a play house of cabbage stalks, corn cobs and blocks of make much larger waves and they would go farther than those made with a smaller object.

Probably you wonder how it is possible to make this radio wave control the wave length. We must first cause a motion of electricity to move up and down in a wire, similar to moving the object up and down in the water. We can change the length of the water wave by making the movements slower or faster, or by changing the length of the up and down motion. The shorter the motion the more waves will be produced and the longer and slower the waves will be. It is just as easily done in the case of radio waves. If we change the motion and amount of the electric current in the proper way. There are two properties which will change the wave length.

Pointers
While an indoor aerial reduces interference of all kinds it also reduces signal strength. Don't forget to clean off the flux after soldering. An auditor should have ventilation, so bore holes in the cabinet.

"Welcome to the hollow stump bungalow!"

built the play house up around me. And I made the windows and doors so little that I can't get out of them! Oh, what shall I do? And, as truly as I'm telling you, Bunty had waited herself up in her play house! She had made the windows and doors so cute and little that she couldn't squeeze through them to get out, once she was inside.

"I'll get you out," said Uncle Wiggily. So he dug a tunnel down through the ground from outside up, up inside the floor of the playhouse. And Bunty could crawl out through this tunnel, so she didn't have to tear down her play house even if the doors and windows were too small. And she had lots of fun after that in the play house.

And if the lollypop doesn't fall off its stick and try to go swimming with the gold fish, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the green berries.

If the plans of the Los Angeles rate association result in the reduction of interurban fares as planned in the complaint made to the State Railroad Commission, Glendale will be greatly benefited. The plan is to cut the fare from Glendale to Los Angeles from 15 cents one way and 25 cents round trip to 10 cents one way and 15 cents round trip.

Announcement was made today by City Commissioner Allan of Pasadena that the new bridge across the Arroyo Seco will be opened for travel on Thanksgiving day.

Work on the new brick fire station on Broadway just east of the Pulliam Undertaking parlor is progressing very rapidly.

At La Ramada, Glendale, in the little park near the end of the electric line there is now blooming one of the finest specimens of the century plant ever seen in California.

The Carnation Rebekah lodge is planning a watermelon festival followed by a dance Saturday at Verdugo park.

According to his father, young Lew is the unluckiest fellow alive. Consider the fact that last case claimed the old man to the American Legion Weekly editor. "Lew goes to the city and falls in love with a girl that lives out in one of the suburbs. And then she throws him down."

"That's nothing," remarked an auditor. "There's lots of girls."

"That ain't the point. The point is that the girl threw him down on his second trip to her place, and he'd went to work and bought a fifty-ride commutation ticket."

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Fasting
The fact that animals do not eat when they are sick is often cited as an example for us to follow. But we cannot always reason from animals. It is possible that if they did eat after a short fast many of them might live instead of die.

The fact that there is no appetite is also cited as an indication that fasting is the proper thing. But we know that the appetite is not always a safe guide, for, in the very diseases which would be benefited by a short fast or a great limitation of food, the appetite is oftentimes markedly stimulated.

The recent deaths in Chicago in a sanitarium conducted by a fasting fadist, and the deaths we hear of quite frequently of other people who have fasted for prolonged periods, show that this is an unnatural process and that during fasting the body not only must feed itself but is called upon to feed the disease as well.

Kellogg condemns prolonged fasting very much. He claims that the disadvantages of prolonged fasting far outweigh any advantages, and that the advantages may be more easily and comfortably obtained by a scientific regulation of the diet.

Muscles, including the heart, waste during fasting; the body loses its iron and vitamins, for they cannot be produced in the animal body and the fasting person feeds on his own body instead of outside sources. The faster is not only a flesh eater, but a cannibal. And there is a condition of high toxicity (poisoning) brought on by this cannibalism.

As I said before, a short fast of a day or slightly longer, accompanied by copious water drinking—a glass every hour, perhaps, with a little fruit juice in it—may be highly beneficial. Agar should be taken, and perhaps some paraffine oil, to furnish ball and lubrication so the bowels will move. And an enemal had better be taken night and morning also.

The so-called fruit fast or green vegetable fast of 500-1000 calories for the day will give all the advantages of fasting without the disadvantages.

Fasting in Diabetes
In diabetes when the urine contains a large amount of sugar, even when very little carbohydrate is taken in the food, the diabetes specialists have their patients go on a fast for two or three days or sometimes longer, depending upon the time the sugar disappears from the urine. But diabetes is such a serious disease that the patient should be under the care of a specialist at all times.

Fasting in Epilepsy
Some claims have been made for fasting as a cure for epilepsy, but Kellogg says that all of the benefits of the fast may be secured by reducing the protein in the diet to the minimum, or even excluding it for a few days, and putting the patient on green vegetables and fruit to make up the bulk of the dietary and milk not to exceed one pint.

He says that in some cases even the milk should be eliminated and four to six ounces of nuts or malted nuts substituted, for a time at least.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

When you return from your summer holidays, you'll find yourself in need of a good cold cream, a face bleach and a hair tonic. I don't mean to imply that the summer vacation isn't good for the hair; it is; it's wonderful, because it builds up your health, and that reacts upon the hair while hairless days in sun and wind are splendid for hair and scalp.

But sunburned hair, like a sunburned face, needs oil, so a tonic with a little bit of oil in it will bring back the lustre that too much sun has dried out. Or, rubbing with a little warm olive oil a few days before the shampoo will have the same effect. Dip the finger tips into the oil, and massage the scalp with them, renewing the oil now and then.

Many people say that salt water "rots" the hair. I think this is nonsense, though too much water, salt or otherwise, is certainly very bad. Getting the whole scalp wet with sea water every day for a week or so will do it good, salt water is a splendid thing for the skin. But after this, rinse out the salt water with fresh water.

The skin will probably be too dry; use cold cream liberally for a week or so. If it's sunburned, use a cucumber lotion, or a face cream with cucumber in it. If you've been sea bathing, you'll find the skin finer grained and clearer; that's the tonic of cold salt water. Make a habit of bathing with salt water, or at least of rinsing the face in a basin of strong salty water every day, letting the salt dry on. But use cold cream daily with this treatment. Salt is slightly drying.

You'll have a few weeks when the skin is yellow as the sunburn fades, but the face cream will reduce the time quite a lot.

"I have tried the experiment of keeping bottled home-made fruit drinks on ice, this summer," writes a Housekeeper Reader, "and it has been such a pleasure to offer an iced drink and a home-made cookie to anyone who came up on my porch. Now I am trying to think of dainty sandwiches or fancy cookies, that I could serve with a cup of tea, later on, when it is too cool to sit on the porch comfortably. Can you help me?"

It is a pleasure to help anyone as hospitable as this Reader. Friend. It is nice to be able to offer the "stranger within our gates" a cup of tea and a cookie. Somehow friendship ripens more easily over the teacups. My idea of a really enjoyable afternoon in fall or winter is to entertain some genial Housekeeper Friend before an open fire, with a tea-cart beside me and perhaps a bit of fancy work at hand, to pick up as we chat. The following dainties are all suitable for such informal entertaining:

Maple Marguerites: Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, add three tablespoons of crushed maple sugar, and whip again till very stiff. Then mix in one cup of either walnut meat or roasted peanuts finely chopped, and spread this mixture on small unsweetened crackers (saltines will do). Slip the crackers into a slow oven, to bake until the nut-meringue is brown. Serve cold.

Game and Success are elusive, for one you must lie in wait, the other you must trap.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-one years of age and have been keeping steady company with a girl of twenty. We have gone together for about two years and always got along fine when we were together, but at times she gets angry and quits me without any excuse.

We have "busted up" and gone back three times already. The last time she claimed some one came down to the bank where she works and told her something, but she would not tell me what it was or who told her, but still she wanted to quit me again. The time before this she promised me if I would take her back she would never quit me again, and so I took her back, but I told her that if she ever quit me again I would never take her back. Now after she has heard something we have quit again.

I have another girl and have been going with her ever since. Today I got a letter from her begging me to take her back. She claims the reason she quit me three times before was to find out whether or not I truly loved her. She promises that if I will take her back this time she will never quit me again and will do anything to please me. Prior to the time she quit me we were engaged to be married, but suddenly she changed her mind and acted as if she were in love with someone else. Now she claims she was not in love with anybody else and if I will take her back she will marry me and will work to help buy us a home.

She has quit me so many times before this that I hardly know whether to take her back or not.

DOUBTFUL BILL.
It seems to me the girl has played fast and loose with you long enough. You cannot trust her to be faithful to you, because experience has proved that her promises mean nothing. I do not believe you would be happy together even if you were to marry her now, because she would be just as moody after marriage as she has been before.

My advice is to let the first girl go and continue your friendship with the second. Love will come to you again later on and it is surely to be hoped that your next experience will be a happier one than the past. You have given your whole heart and have received very little in return.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am eighteen years old. I have boy friends, but never allow them to make love to me. I also have a steady friend whom I don't expect to marry for a few years anyway. He feels as I do, that we are too young to marry. I have been told not to go steady and be loved by some one I don't expect to marry. What would you advise me to do? Should I have friends only? The reason I have a steady friend is because I don't care to go with different boys all the time. Do you think I ought to let the one with whom I go steady make love to me when I don't expect to marry that person?

WANTS TO DO RIGHT.
Follow your own wishes regarding the number of friends with whom you wish to go. Usually a girl who is not in love prefers several friends. Youth is so fickle that usually the little romances do not last long, and when one friend deserts there is another to enjoy. You seem to be of a different type and would probably find more happiness in one friend than in scattering your interests.

I would not advise you to let a young man make love to you merely because you go with him "steady." The only excuse for love-making is love.

A man came in and asked if he could see the boss, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. They told him he would have to wait, that the boss was in conference.

"Very important," added the attendant.
"I know that," said the stranger. "I heard the cork pop."

According to engineers who recently examined its stability, the Eiffel Tower in Paris will last twenty-three years more.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

BY MISS LILLIAN WESTROPP

Miss Lillian Westropp is the organizer and president of the first Woman's Savings and Loan company in the United States. A little over a year ago a band of business and professional women of Cleveland, Ohio, banded together under Miss Westropp and organized the company. Recently the company gave a banquet to its stockholders to celebrate the completion of its first business year. The officers and directors of the company are all women.

Miss Westropp, who by her charmingly feminine appearance dissipates still further that old bugaboo that women engaged in big business must of necessity be masculine in mind and looks, graduated from a Cleveland high school and then studied stenography with a view to earning money to study dramatic art. She studied in New York and joined a road company, playing various parts until the company stranded on the coast. Back she went to stenog-raphy to earn money to get to New York again. A lawyer friend urged her to take up the study of law. Getting work in a law office, she studied nights, using the firm's law library. In 1915 she completed her course and graduated with honor.

Soon after graduation, Miss Westropp decided to go into business for herself. After paying her necessary expenses she had remaining the magnificent sum of $2.50.

After some time spent in a successful law practice, Miss Westropp conceived the idea of a bank for women. Her ideas were finally incorporated in the Women's Savings and Loan company of Cleveland, which she heads.

"I am a firm believer in an equal wage standard for men and women," says Miss Westropp. "The majority of women over thirty are supporting some member of their family, and that is one of the arguments for the same remuneration for the same work."

HOLIDAY CROWDS RETURNING HOME

School, Business and Club Work Form Program of Fall and Winter

With vacation time over and the opening of schools waiting only on Admission Day, Eagle Rock calls back by auto and rail and boat—yes, and afoot!—her wandering ones.

Back to the "Homeland" they come, tanned, healthy, eager for the months of constructive effort ahead. To school will go the children, to high school and college the young men and women whose fortune or desire it is to have a higher education, to work will go those whose ambition lies along other lines.

Father will go to the office, store or factory, and mother will take up her club work with renewed enthusiasm, while son and daughter are apprenticing themselves to their careers.

Everywhere, throughout the community, signs of a return from Play Time to Work Time.

See Grand Canyon

Newton Johnson, of 225 West Ridgeway avenue, son of Dr. and Mrs. Woodbridge O. Johnson, has returned with Hubert Miller, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Cloud Miller, after a three months' trip by auto to the Atlantic coast. They visited a dozen universities on their way and returned via the Grand Canyon.

Dr. and Mrs. Woodbridge O. Johnson are back from a trip to "Camp High Sierra," east of Yosemite. They returned over Tioga pass.

Miss Dorothy Wilde, who is well known to patrons of the Eagle Rock branch of the Security Trust & Savings bank, is at her post again, after a two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Leech and Bert are back from their trip to Fresno where they sweltered a week in terrific heat. Mrs. Leech reports.

Dr. and Mrs. Beauchamp and family, with their niece, Miss Martha White, returned a day or so ago from Big Bear Lake.

Among Those Returning
Mrs. Frederick H. Beach and Bobby, of 1006 South Central avenue, are back from a week's outing at Big Bear lake, as are Mrs. H. M. Perry and son, of 227 Ellenwood drive.

Rev. William S. Middlemass, the new Presbyterian pastor, has arrived and will make his home in the H. E. Benjamin bungalow on North Delaware avenue.

Dr. C. B. Dirks and M. V. Shaff, who have been motoring in the north, are reported on their way home.

Prof. J. C. Shedd and family have returned from Hermosa Beach, where they have been enjoying a two weeks' outing, and are living at their 203 West Colorado boulevard home.

Max Koen, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Koen, of College View avenue, will enter King's Military academy in the fall, as a boarding pupil.

Dr. Edward Ellison and family, of 309 East Ridgeway avenue, have returned from an auto trip to Yellowstone via Salt Lake and points between. They came back by way of Portland, Ore.

E. D. Jones, of 2575 West Colorado boulevard, accompanied by Marion and Stanley Jones, is on the way back to Eagle Rock from a trip to Lake Tahoe, where they enjoyed a delightful vacation at Emerald bay. Howard Jones motored with the party as far as Berkeley, where he returned to the University of California.

Stanley Cresswell, of 128 East Eagle avenue, has returned from a summer spent at Asilomar.

In the meantime The Glendale Evening News will receive any contributions that the sympathetic people of Glendale care to make for the survivors of the worst catastrophe in the history of the Flowery Kingdom, men, women and children who are wandering around in a daze, unable to realize fully the plight in which they find themselves, while the Japanese army attempts to carry out the almost hopeless task of feeding them, allaying their thirst, warding off the dangers of pestilence, and bringing some sort of order out of the chaos that has resulted from the earthquake and the fire, until such time as the American ships that are now racing for Tokyo can land their precious cargoes of supplies and their expert relief workers.

Councilman Sam Davis in a new, high-powered auto, labored on Labor Day. It took him two hours to travel five miles. The road was good—a state highway—he had plenty of gasoline and the car's motor was behaving perfectly. Yet, it took Councilman Davis two hours to make five miles. Why?

Answer: A traffic jam. Many thousands of cars were returning from San Diego Labor Day. They halted frequently and so tied up the "line of march."

"At one stop I climbed a hill, looked ahead and saw several miles of cars at a standstill," said Councilman Davis today. "At one point in the procession thirty miles of cars were stopped; they were packed solid along the highway. When the leaders started, it was forty-five minutes later before the end of the line was in motion."

"When I left San Diego I planned to reach home by 8 o'clock at night; it was after midnight before I reached home. Yes, I was in a jam—a traffic jam, I mean."

BURBANK FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR SEWER WORK

Construction of System Will Start at Once, Say
City Trustees

The funds from Burbank's issue of sewer bonds was turned over to the city yesterday and is now available for construction of the new system. The Board of Trustees has consequently instructed F. C. Miller, city engineer, to proceed with establishment of grades and other necessary engineering features.

With this announcement, Burbank enters a new phase. The decks are cleared for action. That the action will be immediate, is evident on interviewing members of the board. All are of the opinion that nothing must now stand in the way of a speedy accomplishment of what for years has been a dream.

The movement began with words; it ended with deeds. Sewer bonds were voted and the "sewer farm" in the southwest section purchased. Then, through a technicality of the law necessitating special action by the state legislature, sale of the bonds was held up. But the legislature acted, validating the bonds, which the bonding company have now placed on sale.

Just how the sewage will be disposed of is not yet certain, but as the same lateral system will be required in any case, this will go in at once, the trustees assure. Hence nothing now stands in the way of a sewer system for Burbank but the system itself.

Boys! Bad News!

School opens September 11 in the Burbank elementary system, announces Superintendent Collins. Ordinarily Monday, September 10 would have been the date, but as Admission Day this year falls on Sunday, September 9, it will be celebrated on the following day. So the children will not pack up their books and hit the trail to knowledge until Tuesday.

Superintendent Collins makes the further announcement that as the teachers are beginning to assemble, he would appreciate a list of available rooms, with and without board. The lists should be mailed to him at 483 Verdugo avenue.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. has been postponed until the third Wednesday of September.

of 1926; second, through an initiative petition.

The California section of the American Legion may organize a campaign to circulate the necessary petitions to call this election, according to Attorney McBryde. He stated that no definite course of action has been decided upon because the fact that the $10,000,000 bond issue would be insufficient has only been known a short time.

Costs Taxpayers Nothing
Asked whether he believed the people of California would approve an adequate bond issue, Attorney McBryde replied that he could see no reason why not. He called attention to the fact that this legislation does not involve a bonus, but bona fide loans to ex-service men, which are repaid with interest. Its administration does not cost the taxpayers a cent.

The distribution of the loans available through the inadequate bond issue, in the opinion of Mr. McBryde, have been very beneficial—not only to the recipients of the loans, but also to realtors, contractors, home furnishers, and to the prosperity of the state in general.

One of the principal advantages of the legislation is the fact that it makes it possible for California ex-service men, most of whom are employed on moderate salaries, to secure homes or farms upon a smaller payment down than such a loan could be obtained from a commercial or banking institution. The rate of interest is lower, also.

Efficiently Handled
Efficiency in the administration of loans involving the $10,000,000 bond issue was commented upon. The local delegate stated that delays, which have frequently been the subject of complaint, in many cases have been caused by procrastination on the part of the beneficiaries themselves in complying with the necessary red-tape.

One of the features of the recent state convention was a speech by United States Senator Samuel Shortridge, who declared that he, instead of today, as had been scheduled. The gathering will probably be held in the parlors of the Presbyterian church and will have for its topic "The Constitution," inasmuch as the week in question is known as "Constitution Week."

The tax payers of Burbank will be called upon to pay a higher rate than has been previously announced, owing to the fact that the Los Angeles county auditor has protested against being burdened with fractions. The increase is 1/2 cent per $100 of assessed valuation and goes into the park fund, showing once more that it is "an ill wind that blows nobody good."

The argument arose over the rate of $1.14 1/2 voted by the city trustees. This one-half cent, it seems, was too much for the mathematical powers of the county tax office. Hence the decision to make the rate $1.15 and let the little birdies and the green grass blades be the beneficiaries!
